Dear Mr. Breene,

I have been trying to reach Giovanna Colan by phone and e-mail for some time without success in order to arrange an interview in this case. She has not returned my messages. I would be grateful for your assistance.

Following the previous official action in this case, my colleague, Sanford Colb, held an interview with Examiners Colan and Hashemi and reached agreement on an amendment to overcome the cited art. In the present official action, however, Examiner Colan rejected the amended claims over the same references, and also made new rejections under 35 USC 101 and 112. We are confused by the official action and would like to speak with the examiner (and possibly agree on a further amendment) before responding.

I will be in Washington this Monday, April 16, and could come in for a personal interview. (Either 9 AM or 4 PM would be best, since I have other interviews scheduled between 10 and 4.) In the alternative, we could conduct the interview by phone. Please let me know if and when an interview, either in person or telephonic, might be possible.

Regards,
